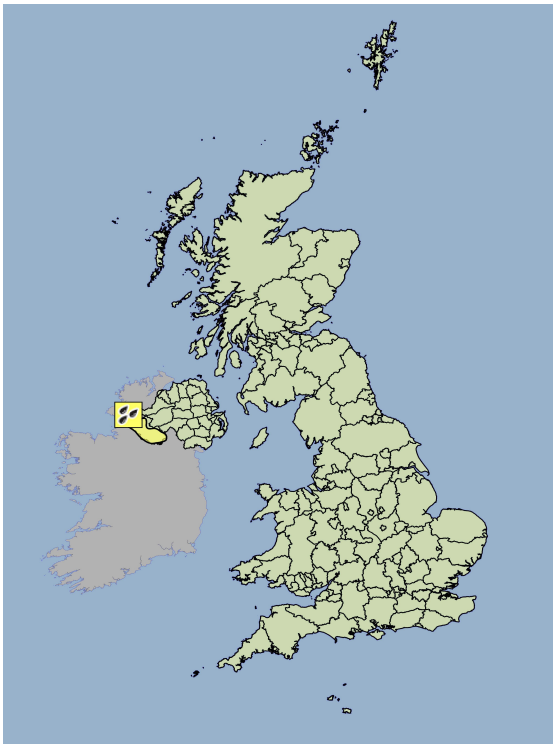
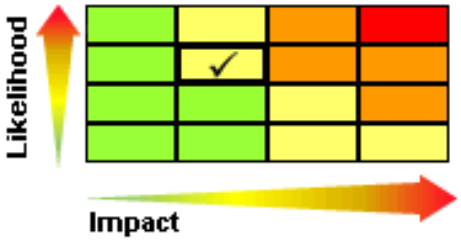
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A warm front moving north across Northern Ireland on Sunday will bring another spell of wet weather. Rainfall totals of around 15 mm are expected in Fermanagh, and while these amounts are not large, with high river and lough levels, they could still lead to localised flooding.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 11:00 on Sun, 13th Dec 2015 until 19:00 on Sun, 13th Dec 2015

Another band of rain will move north across Northern Ireland from late Sunday morning. The rain will be persistent for a while, before clearing northwards in the evening. Given the saturated ground, and some snowmelt from the hills, please be aware that localised flooding and some disruption to travel continues to be possible.
